Want to know where The United States General Services Administration (GSA) posts its major procurement opportunities? How commercial vendors are able to access the products and services that are available for bidding? Want to learn more about how the GSA can help you do business through their Office of Small Business Utilization (OSBU?) Then come to the Temple Small Business Development Center's presentation of "What is a GSA number and How Do I Get One?"

Topics covered in the class include how GSA does business, Public Building Service, Federal Supply Schedules, explanations of how to get on the GSA schedule and what is included in a quality offer.

The Temple University Small Business Development Center (SBDC) is part of a network of university and college centers providing a wide range of services to small businesses. Established in 1983, the SBDC is part of the Temple University Fox School of Business and Management, ranked #1 in "Value for Money" among U.S. public-urban universities and the only

U.S. school ranked in the top ten in all global categories by Financial Times 2006. For more information, please visit the Temple SBDC website at www.temple.edu/sbdc.
