Temple Small Business Development Center Offers Free
Pre-Business Seminar During Entrepreneur's Week
Entrepreneurs Learn the Basics to Starting Up

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 7, 2008 – On Wednesday, May 21, 2008 the Temple SBDC offers their Pre-Business Seminar to teach local entrepreneurs how to thrive as they begin the start-up process. The seminar will take place from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. 1510 Cecil B. Moore Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19121.

It's no secret that starting your own business takes a lot of work. Many entrepreneurs create stellar business ideas but lack sufficient knowledge and planning to turn these dreams into successful business realities.

The seminar offers information about obtaining licenses, determining the right legal structure, receiving financing, writing a business plan, and many other factors to consider when starting a small business.

To register for the free Pre-Business Seminar, please contact the Temple Small Business Development Center Training Department at 215-204-3856 or sbtrain@temple.edu. Registration is required.

The Temple University Small Business Development Center is part of a network of university and college centers providing a wide range of services to small businesses. Established in 1983, the SBDC is part of the Temple University Fox School of Business and Management, ranked #1 in "Value for Money" among U.S. public-urban universities and the only U.S. school ranked in the top ten in all global categories by Financial Times 2006.
